Internship/Employment Opportunities

Below is a list of opportunities shared with Future Link for your reference. Use this listing as a resource to compliment your internship or job search (This list should NOT take the place of your own internship/job search.).

Please take the time to research the jobs you are applying for; adjusting your resume to illustrate how you are the BEST person for the job. READ the job description and identify the skills you will bring to the organization. Always have someone proofread your resume. Send it to your mentor or to Future Link (Katie Young kyoung@futurelinkmd.org or Jesse Muse jmuse@futurelinkmd.org).

NIH Community College Day will be virtual this year and take place on Tuesday, November 24, 2020! Please tell students. Attending this event will help students learn about the NIH Community College Summer Enrichment Program (CCSEP) – a wonderful opportunity for students to get their FIRST internship exposure to working in research. And please don’t thing just hard-core life sciences. Research in Community Health and the Social Sciences happens here as well. Encourage students to take advantage of this opportunity!

This year’s virtual program will include career panels, virtual networking, a newly added panel on “Preparing for the 4-year College/University Experience, and the popular session on the NIH Community College Summer Enrichment Program/Alumni panel. This is a program that many of students and faculty have grown to enjoy prior to the Thanksgiving Holiday! The virtual program promises to be just as inspiring and encouraging to your students! I hope that you will encourage them to attend.

Registration is now open at https://www.training.nih.gov/sas/ _20/1974/! This program is free and open to all students and faculty nationwide. So please feel free to forward the attached “Save-the-Date” flyer!

The Federal Government’s International Development Finance Institution is offering webinars to inform interested students, recent graduates, and young professionals about job and internship opportunities.

Are you interest in working for the Federal Government’s International Development Finance Institution? Gain a greater understanding of the many career paths and developmental programs available to you across the federal government and specifically through the Development Finance Corporation (DFC). Whether you are a student, recent graduate, or a young or seasoned professional, or you are simply looking for a mid-career change, you will learn how to:

- Use your education and expertise to apply to the most appropriate opportunities for your skillset;
• Navigate USAJOBS—the official job search portal for the federal government—and make it work for you by tailoring job searches, setting automatic notifications, uploading pertinent documents, and applying to jobs without leaving the site;
• Read and understand a federal job announcement;
• Craft a robust résumé/CV that highlights education, strengths, experience and accomplishments;
• Nail the interview and build a strong portfolio;
• Explore special federal hiring programs for students and recent graduates, veterans, military spouses, applicants with disabilities, national and community service volunteers, and eligible foreign service family members;
• And much more! No matter your field of study or professional background, you can be a part of the workforce that’s supporting American businesses investing in emerging markets to help address critical developmental challenges around the world.

These sessions provide a high level of information that can be beneficial to students interested in pursuing a career at the DFC. I am confident participation in this presentation will be a great investment for those looking for careers in the federal sector and DFC.
